WHEN YOU'RE IN THE FRONT LINE FIGHTING ANTIBIOTIC-RESISTANT MICROBES, IT MAKES SENSE TO KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY.

With antibiotic-resistance on the increase, even minor wounds can lead to major repercussions.

Betadine Dry Powder Spray is a broad spectrum antiseptic for the treatment and prevention of infection in minor skin wounds. It is easy to apply and dries instantly with no mess.

By delivering a first-line defence against infection of minor skin wounds, it helps to preserve your antibiotic options for when they are really needed.

Povidone iodine, the active ingredient of Betadine Dry Powder Spray, has been proven to demonstrate:

- A broad spectrum of antimicrobial activity¹
- A rapid and persistent antimicrobial effect in healthy skin^{1,2}
- Good skin tolerance and low potential for allergenicity^{3,4}

Also, unlike some other antiseptics, povidone iodine has shown no antimicrobial resistance.^{1,5}

Betadine Dry Powder 25mg/g Topical Spray, Povidone Iodine. Your first line of defence in minor wound care.

Name of the product: Betadine Dry Powder Spray. Active Ingredient: Povidone iodine 2.5% w/w. Indications: Antiseptic for the treatment and prevention of infection in wounds including ulcers, burns, cuts and other minor injuries. Dosage and Administration: For topical use only. Adults and children aged 2 years and older: Shake the can well before use. Spray the required area from a distance of 6-10 inches (15-25cm) until a coating of powder is deposited. If necessary, the treated area may be covered with a dressing. Contra-indications: Hypersensitivity to iodine, polyvinylpyrrolidone or to any excipient. History of abnormal thyroid function or goitre (in particular nodular colloid goitre, endemic goitre and Hashimoto's thyroiditis). Use in children under 2 years of age. Regular use should be avoided in patients on concurrent lithium therapy. Avoid inhaling or spraying into the eyes. Should not be used in serious cavities. Special Warnings and Precautions: Use may interfere with tests of thyroid function. Iodine is absorbed through burns and broken skin and to a lesser extent through intact skin and may lead to toxic levels of iodine in the blood, particularly in patients with renal insufficiency. If symptoms occur suggesting changes in thyroid function, these should be investigated. In patients with impaired renal function, blood levels of iodine should be monitored. If local irritation and hypersensitivity develop, then discontinue treatment. Betadine Dry Powder Spray can permanently discolour white gold jewellery and it is recommended that this type of jewellery should be removed before use. Undesirable Effects: Local irritation, skin burns and sensitivity reactions have been reported rarely. Anaphylactic reactions, anaphylactoid reactions and anaphylactic shock have been reported uncommonly with products containing povidone-iodine or povidone. Excess iodine can produce goitre and hypothyroidism or hyperthyroidism. Such effects have occasionally been seen with extensive or prolonged use of povidone iodine. Other effects that have been reported are metabolic acidosis and acute renal failure. Marketing
